

You're Invited to Be a Part of...

Professional Church Workers Education Support

Today is "District Sunday" — a day to celebrate your congregation's part in the work of the Mid-South District, which is an alliance of over 125 LCMS congregations, 12 schools and 27 early childhood centers across Arkansas, Tennessee and southern Kentucky. The Mid-South District partners with these ministries and their professional church workers through a range of services and resources. One of the District's important ways to serve these ministries is through financial aid for the education of current and future workers.

LCMS pastors, teachers, deaconesses and Directors of Christian Education (DCEs) are unique professionals whose careers are an answer to God's call to serve. Fulfilling this call includes education, which can be costly. That is why the Mid-South District supports the education efforts of individuals pursuing full-time careers in church work by providing opportunities for financial aid. In 2014, the Mid-South District was blessed to be able to provide over $79,000 in financial aid to seminary and Concordia undergraduate students from congregations in our area.

This District Sunday, we invite YOU to be a part of this important work by sharing a gift in support of student financial aid for professional church workers in Arkansas, Tennessee and southern Kentucky. Simply make your gift payable to "Mid-South District LCMS" with "District Sunday 2015" on the memo line and include it with today's offering. Gifts from across the Mid-South will be combined with the offering from the upcoming District Convention opening service on Friday, June 26.

Thank you for your prayers and support of our District's professional church workers!

You're Invited to Be a Part of...

Professional Church Workers Education Support

Today is "District Sunday" — a day to celebrate your congregation's part in the work of the Mid-South District, which is an alliance of over 125 LCMS congregations, 12 schools and 27 early childhood centers across Arkansas, Tennessee and southern Kentucky. The Mid-South District partners with these ministries and their professional church workers through a range of services and resources. One of the District's important ways to serve these ministries is through financial aid for the education of current and future workers.

LCMS pastors, teachers, deaconesses and Directors of Christian Education (DCEs) are unique professionals whose careers are an answer to God's call to serve. Fulfilling this call includes education, which can be costly. That is why the Mid-South District supports the education efforts of individuals pursuing full-time careers in church work by providing opportunities for financial aid. In 2014, the Mid-South District was blessed to be able to provide over $79,000 in financial aid to seminary and Concordia undergraduate students from congregations in our area.

This District Sunday, we invite YOU to be a part of this important work by sharing a gift in support of student financial aid for professional church workers in Arkansas, Tennessee and southern Kentucky. Simply make your gift payable to "Mid-South District LCMS" with "District Sunday 2015" on the memo line and include it with today's offering. Gifts from across the Mid-South will be combined with the offering from the upcoming District Convention opening service on Friday, June 26.

Thank you for your prayers and support of our District's professional church workers!

